This close personal liaison has proved a decisive factor in our success as consulting engineers and ensures that projects are developed using technology, which is most suitable to the physical, socio-economic and climate environment in which they are to operate. It also leads to cost effectiveness and timely completion of development programs, elements which, together with assured quality, are essential to a truly successful outcome.*

PROFESSIONAL IDEALS AND WORKING PRACTICES

We attach the highest importance to providing our clients with a personal service, whether their requirements are large or small. It is our policy, therefore, that a Director assumes personal and overall responsibility for a project, including liaison with the client. This policy has proved to be extremely effective and assures that the client's project receives the careful attention of senior management at all times.

It is also our aim to provide technical excellence in our services. The increasingly complex nature of development projects requires the input of many highly specialized skills, and over the years close working relationships have been established with many leading specialist organizations whose services can be called on at short notice.

With the grace of ALLAH the Almighty, DMC has been short listed by Frontier Highway Authority as NO LIMIT consultant for design and supervision of roads and bridges. We are second to none in the water resources sector. We have also established ourselves in the social sector having viable presence in various social sector projects in NWFP.
